2 DIE IN MILL EXPLOSION TODAY

SCHRIEBER MILL HAS DUST EXPLOSION.

THIRTY MORE INJURED

Blow-Up Occurred at Kansas City Today Shortly After Two-Thirty o'Clock.

Kansas City, Dec. 27 (Bulletin). — Two men were probably burned to death and thirty others were seriously injured when a dust explosion occurred in the Schrieber Flour and Cereal Company's mills here this afternoon.

The explosion shook the buildings for blocks around. The Schrieber building was a complete loss. Several of the injured are not expected to live. At 2:30 this afternoon the injured were taken to hospitals and every fire department in the city had been summoned to aid in preventing the spread of the fire. The damage wil probably run into a hundred thousand dollars.

Across the street in the Loose-Wiles building, girls became hysterical and fainted as the explosion rocked the building. They were carried from the building and fainted again when they saw the bodies strewn about in the street where they had been blown by the explosion.

On account of the intense heat, the firemen experienced great difficulty in getting in fighting range of the fire. A spark from a motor flying into the dust of an elevator shaft is said to have started the fire and explosion. Instantly flames leaped up seventy feet in the elevator shaft catching the dry wood. One man was blown from the doorway of a loading station into a freight car. All of the injured persons were taken to the Emergency and General Hospitals.

52D ASSEMBLY TO MEET WEDNESDAY

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUSES TUESDAY TO SELECT OFFICERS.

MANY CANDIDATES OUT

Both the Senate and the House are Democratic—Oak Hunter of Moberly Leading for Speaker.

By A. T. Edmonston.

Jefferson City, Mo., Dec. 27.—With the opening of the Fifty-Second General Assembly of Missouri less than a week in the future it is still unsettled as to who is to be president protem in the Senate, and upon which democratic representative will be bestowed the exalted but strenuous glory of being Speaker of the House. Democratic candidates for both honors are numerous but the number will dwindle down materially before the next Legislature is called to order by Lieutenant-Governor Hiram Lloyd of St. Louis.

The next State Senate being democratic by four it will name a staunch party man to be president pro tem. This official will name all committees and preside over all important deliberations of that body. Lieutenant-Governor Lloyd will be completely stripped of authority and power and be officially tolerated only to the extent that he is the second chief executive official of Missouri. It will be his duty at $7 per diem to call the Senate to order daily and adjourn it on motion at the close of each session. John C. McKinley of Unionville and the late Jacob F. Gmelich, formerly of Boonville, two former Republican Lieutenant-Governors during the last fourteen years were in the same predicament in their terms owing to a democratic majority in the Senate. The incoming Senate consists of nineteen democrats and fifteen republicans.

"Casey at the Bat."

Among the democratic senators, holdovers and newly elected, favorably mentioned for president pro tem of the Senate are: M. E. Casey of Kansas City, Michael Kinney of St. Louis, Frank H. Farris of Rolla, former Lieutenant-Governor William R. Painter of Carrollton, James E. Whitecotton of Paris and Moberly, and Banker Walter Brownlee of Brookfield. From St. Louis comes the information that Senator Casey is in the lead in the interesting contest with nine of the nineteen democratic senators pledged to his support. Only one more senator is needed to confer the honor on this Kaw Parliamentarian when the democratic majority caucuses to perfect its organization on Tuesday, January 2, the day before the General Assembly convenes. It is also stated that Senator Farris has nine votes pledged for the honor of being Democratic floor leader. Further information from St. Louis, where the democratic senators conferred recently, is to the effect that all holdover and re-elected toga wearers are behind Senators Casey and Farris for the places just enumerated, and that Chairmanships of important committees will be thrown to Senators Whitecotton, Bronlee, A. W. McCawley of Carthage, Ernest R. James of St. Joseph, Painter, Nick T. Cave of Fulton, David Bagby, Jr., of Fayette, Samuel Cunningham of Cabool, Joseph H. Brogan and Michael Kinney of St. Louis, B. T. Gordon of Liberty, Jefferson D. Hostetter of Bowling Green and Tillman W. Anderson of Commerce, ~~because of their~~ past legislative experience and their parliamentary abilities. It is fully realized that errors of magnitude must not be committed by the democratic majority in either the Senate or House during the session and for this reason,

Henry Westfall will remain in the circuit clerk's office for a few weeks after the first of the year to wind up the business of that office. Mr. Westfall is undecided about what he will do in the future.

Martin A. Lewis, Sr., will be one of the deputies in the office of County Clerk Fred W. Smith. Mr. Lewis has resigned his position with the Standard Poland-China Record association to accept his position in the county clerk's office. Miss Fay Sprecher has resigned as one of the deputy county clerks to take effect January 1. Fred Wright will continue as one of the deputies in that office.

Mrs. Rosa Webb, state superintendent of the department of scientific temperance instruction has written the following to Mrs. S. S. Wolcott: Mrs. Webb is secretary for Mrs. Middleton, who is world superintendent of the scientific temperance instruction. She visited the Maryville schools last May, when the regional conference met here.

"The convention was wonderful, but I had charge of Mrs. Middleton's scientific temperance instruction room of exhibits. I was either talking or hearing others talk from early morning until late at night. It is said that we always find what we are looking for and perhaps I was looking for the S. T. I. but it seemed to me that the burden of the talks by the foreign delegates were to help us get S. T. I. work in our school that we may win national prohibition as you have done.' They were so interested in our S. T. I. room and asked so many questions as how to proceed in getting it for their homelands. I do hope we can get our work in the colleges this year. Mrs. Middleton is going to give her time almost exclusively to teacher training. One teacher interested will interest forty pupils. Missouri has asked Mrs. Middleton to give some time to our teacher colleges and of course you will want her at Maryville."

POLICY REVERSED AGAINST GERMANY

BY BRITISH GOVERNMENT FORCASTED

UNLESS QUIBBLING ENDS

For Patience of Great Britain Is About Exhausted With Germany Says Dispatch

London,, Dec. 27—A complete reversal of the British policies toward the Germans unless they cease their quibbling over the provisions of the Versailles Treaty, was forcasted today.

Great Britain and Italy may withdraw their objections to the French occupation of the Ruhr, if the reparation agreement which will be worked out in Paris next month at the meeting of the premiers, is rejected by the Germans.

The supreme moment in Europe is rapidly approaching and its outcome will determine whether there will be tranquility in Europe or developments that may mean the beginning of fresh warfare. It was learned today in authoritive circles that the patience of Great Britain is about exhausted with Germany, and British officials will not countenance further evasion of the reparation question by Germany.

ARREST EX-MAYOR IN MERROUGE CASE

DR. B. M. McKOIN ARRESTED IN BALTIMORE

"HORRIFYING" SAYS COCO

But Attorney-General Says He Is Sure Evidence Secured Will Convict

New Orleans, Dec. 27 (Bulletin). — "Horrifying" was the word used by Attorney General Coco today in describing the state of Louisiana's developments in the case of the mutiliation and murder of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards, by an alleged hooded band last August. "I never felt more sure of having hold of the right lines of evidence in our grasp to convict," said Coco.

Mer Rouge, La., Dec. 27—With two former officers of Morehouse parish behind the prison bars in connection with the kidnapping and murder of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards, the citizens of this section are waiting stoically for the ax to fall again. The department of justice officials, who for months have been working to discover evidence in the murders, have said that nearly a score would be called to answer for the crime.

The two men already locked up are T. J. Burnett, former deputy sheriff and a man of high standing in the neighborhood, and Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge, who was arrested late yesterday afternoon in Baltimore.

That other arrests can be expected momentarily is the opinion of everyone. Other arrests have been promised and it is expected that they will be made as soon as the men show signs of nervousness, for there is no need to wait further.

Rumors that a change of venue would be asked for at the preliminary hearing on January 5 have not been given much credence here. The laws of the state of Louisiana provide that a change of venue may be made where prejudice is shown, but only to adjoining counties and this would be of no use here. For this reason, the report that the case might be taken to New Orleans, would be obviously impossible under the law.

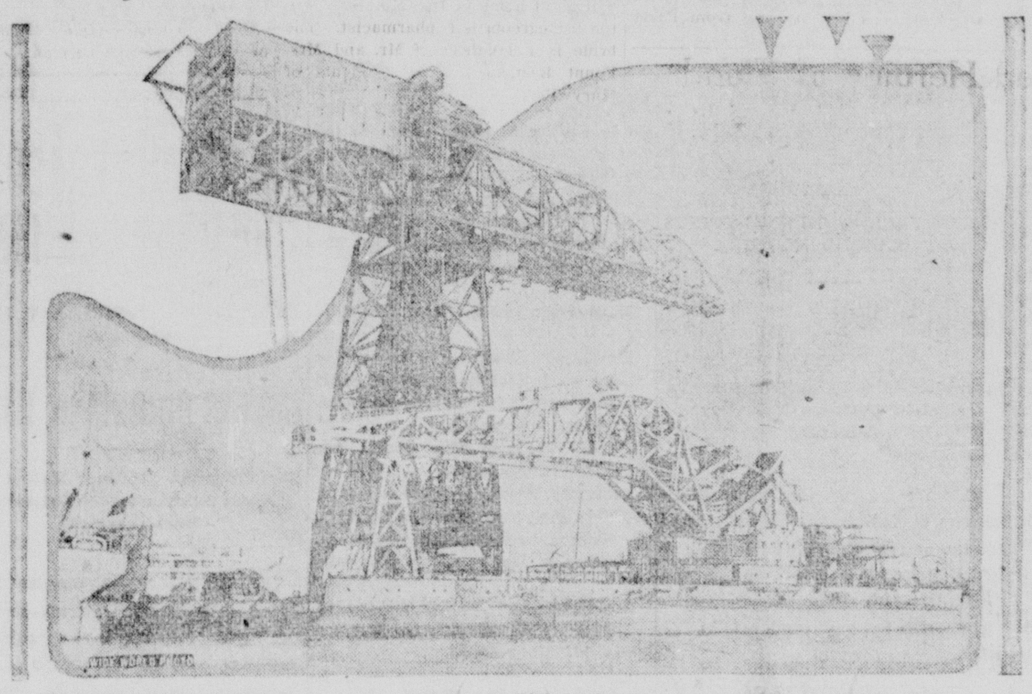
Navy Now Has Two of World's Most Powerful Cranes



Here is the mammoth 350-ton stationary crane at the Philadelphia navy yard, with the newly completed floating crane Kearsarge tied up alongside. The Kearsarge recently completed successful tests, lifting 312 tons. The Kearsarge floating crane, considered a most remarkable marine development, is capable of lifting nearly as heavy a cargo as the stationary crane in spite of the fact that it is much smaller.

ARE COLLEGE DEGREES ASSETS OR LIABILITIES?

Educators Discuss Employment Department Head Strictures.

Washington Dec. 27—(Capital News Service).—The Director of the District of Columbia Public Employment Department has published statistics showing that comparatively few college men who apply for positions are capable of earning more than ten or twelve dollars a week and that employers prefer non-degree men for clerical work.

"It is almost impossible to place a college graduate in a position owing to the lack of qualification needed in the business and industrial world today," said the director. "These applicants want executive positions for which they are not fitted and which are very few.

"On the other hand, the employers don't want college graduates. They state that employees of this kind are unfitted for the work and are always expecting increases, which they are not deserving. They are very unsatisfactory, and it is a rarity that they last any length of time."

Records of a week show that more than 100 persons the department was unable to place had received degrees from some of the most prominent colleges in the country. The few whom the department accommodated accepted positions of a clerical nature at salaries beginning at $5.00 a week. Applicants with a business or technical training and those willing to accept laboring or domestic positions were quickly placed.

Educators who discuss the report say that the fault is not with the colleges or the degrees, but the man. They contend that a college degree is an indication of its possessor having spent a certain amount of time, and obtained a certain number of scholastic credits by acquiring a certain amount of knowledge, but not necessarily knowledge desired by business houses in employing clerks. It was suggested by one authority that the most expert bookkeeper, typist, and stenographer in the world would not be worth five dollars a week as a doctor, a lawyer, a chemist, or an engineer. "Why, then," he continued "blame the colleges which prepare a man, at his own request, for academic and philosophical pursuits, because his knowledge is not that desired by those who would employ bookkeepers and stenographers?

The fault, contend the educators, is in the sending of boys and girls to college to study abstract subject, when in future they will have to earn their living by practical effort and not in the college which does but give to its customers the good they demand. There are plenty of institutions teaching the arc of making a living it is pointed out, for those who wish to put in their college years in preparation for money making.

FACTORY OUTPUT SET AT $1,554,512,735

Jefferson City, Dec. 27—Estimates based in 3,187 manufacturing returns this year from many of the largest productive establishments in the state indicate that the value of Missouri's total factory and workshop outputs during 1921 was $1,554,512,735, according to the Missouri Red Book, soon to be issued by the commissioner of labor's office.

"While this report is preliminary," the Red Book will say, "the final findings will not change it sufficiently either to lower or increase the high rank of the state as a manufacturing commonwealth. During the war period many of the larger manufacturers of the state, for satisfactory but probably not legal reasons, were delinquent in making annual returns.

"Many holding federal contracts for supplying food products, clothing and shoes, war munitions and army and navy necessities refused to make returns until it was shown to their satisfaction that federal laws prohibiting the promulgation of information which might be of use to the enemy was not being imparted.

This old world is overflowing with good people but it seems very few have been able to pick us out yet.

Our stenographer remarks that typewritter covers are good things but few men seem to know what they are for.

A salesman in a haberdashery store imparts the most valuable information that blue is the favorite color of Maryville men. At least he says it is the most wanted color in garters.

Uncle Abner says a lot of peopie act as if there was a meter on kindness and that they were afraid they would run over the minimum.

Talk about high finances, a little boy here wanted to go to the movies the other day with several of his companions and his mother would not give him the money. Did he go behind the door and cry? Not this lad. He hied himself to the grocery where the family bought their provisions, bought two dozen eggs, took them to another store sold them and not only went with his little friends to the movies but paid their way as well. The reckoning will come when dad settles the bill next Saturday night.

What has become of the Maryville girl of a few years ago who used to come down the street with her face buried in a fur muff almost as large as herself?

An anti-motorist suggests that the auto radiators should be given a few cloves as the fumes are almost as strong as those from an old soak.

If the landlords all refuse to rent to tenants having children where do you suppose the landlords of the future will get their renters?

Louise the stenographer says her idea of a case of desperate poverty is being forced to wear last winter's hat.

A warning to look out for bogus $50 bills has been issued. It is one warning most of us will not need to worry about.

MODERN CHORUS GIRL A HARD WORKER, SAY C. D. DILLINGHAM

Discipline of Boarding School and Convent Maintained at Work, Declares Noted Director

New York Dec. 27—"The ladies of the chorus who formerly rode to work in limousines and were met after the show by millionaires in high silk hats are no more." The chorus girl of today is under as strict discipline as a boarding school or convent." Thus Charles B. Dillingham, noted director, shattered one of "Main Street's" favorite allusions today. "Thirty per cent of the chorus girls in New York are from colleges and convents," he declared.

"The chorus girls walk to work in athletic clothing and return home chaperoned. "Dillingham added," If they have nothing but looks we don't want them, mental and physical training by colleges and convents are more important than looks." So many university girls are coming to us and we are glad to have them because of their ambition and intellect.

Driving Comfort in Winter

The Buick "Model 45" Six Cylinder—$1195

As complete as has been the development of the enclosed car, Buick designers have not neglected to improve the open type of car, building into it a measure of comfort, convenience and weather protection surpassed only by the more expensive closed vehicle.

Protection against wind and snow is assured by the snug-fitting storm curtains that open with the doors. The Buick design of storm curtains with a special weather strip provides a coziness, comparable to that of any closed car, while windshield wiper and tight fitting windshield, adjustable from within, make driving safe and comfortable.

Added to this, and equally important in winter driving, is the splendid performance that a Buick car always produces—its constant and surplus power—its roadability and perfect balance and its unquestioned dependability.

For cold weather driving there is no superior to the Buick open cars.

The Buick Line for 1923 Comprises Fourteen Models:

Touring—23-34, $855; 23-35, $835; 23-36, $1175; 23-37, $1395; 23-33, $1325. Sixes—23-44, $1175; 23-45, $1195; 23-41, $1935; 23-47, $1985; 23-48, $1695; 23-49, $1435; 23-50, $2195; 23-54, $1625; 23-55, $1675; Prices f. o. b. Buick factories. Ask about the G. M. A. C. The Snow Fairy

By Martha B. Thomas

© 1922 WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

I DON'T suppose two noses were ever pressed more forlornly against a window-glass than those belonging to Jerry and Sally. If you were to look at them from the outside, in their front yard, for instance, they would not seem like noses at all; you would say that Jerry and Sally had small, white pears on their faces, and pretty squashed pears at that! This is what a window-glass does to two children who have the whooping cough and are standing as closely as possible against the nearest thing to getting out—a window.

Jerry dug his fists down into his pockets and looked as cross as a bear. Sally blinked very fast to keep the tears from rolling down her cheeks, and her two pigtails quivered unhappily.

"We'll miss the party and the games and the goodies . . . and everything!" she wailed.

"I don't care about the old party!" declared Jerry scornfully. "What I want is to get out and make a snowman. Look at all this perfectly good snow going to waste! I call it a shame!" And you would have thought by his tone that all blizzards were invented for the express purpose of giving little boys the opportunity of playing in it.

"Mary Randall's going to wear her new pink dress and her slippers!" sniffed Sally, "and I have a red dress and new slippers too-o-o!" This last thought was almost too much, and one large tear did manage to tumble over and down her cheek. Jerry pretended not to see it. Perhaps he was having trouble with his own eyes, though of course boys never cry, not even when tomorrow's Christmas and everything is spoiled because of whooping cough.

"Mother said we should have to have a party by ourselves and make believe that lots of people came to it," said Sally.

Jerry grunted. He didn't care much for this make-believe stuff—too sissified. "Let's sit down in front of the open fire," suggested Sally, "and tell stories. I'm tired of looking out of the window. Perhaps something nice will happen; who can tell?"

So the two children settled themselves in front of the fire. They drew up two low stools and they each sat with their elbows on their knees and their chins in their hands. It was very warm and cosy. The logs crackled and sputtered as though they were doing their best to cheer other people up, and the dancing flames had a regular parade up and down the wood. It was late afternoon and growing a little dark.

Suddenly Sally's pigtails stuck out straight behind her in surprise.

"What's that?" she whispered, and her eyes were big as saucers.

"Where?" asked Jerry, a little startled too.

"I saw something white flit in at the door!"

"So did I."

The children looked cautiously around. Nothing was to be seen.

Just an ordinary room, a bright fire and two children in front of it.

"Funny—" mused Sally.

There was the faintest rustle by the clock on the mantel. It sounded like snowflakes talking together.

"There! I heard something again!" said Sally.

Both children stared at the clock, for that was where the sound came from.

It was quite dark by this time, except for the light from the logs, so it was natural that Jerry and Sally did not at first see the little person perched on the edge of the mantel.

"How do you do?" asked a tiny voice. It tinkled like a fairy sleigh bell.

"Mercy!" exclaimed Sally.

Jerry just winked his eyes very fast.

"Here I am up by the clock," tinkled the voice again.

And sure enough, there she was indeed! The children saw her now. A wee, slender bit of a thing about the size of a sweet pea. And she was the whitest creature you could imagine. Snowflake ruffles with crystal trimming, icicle jewels in her hair, and eyes bright and frosty as stars.

Jerry and Sally gasped. Sally wanted to jump up and hug her. But you can't do that with a Snow Fairy; she'd melt all to pieces in your fingers, and then where would you be?

"I have come to pay you a little call," laughed the fairy, "because I like to talk with children who are ill and can't go out. I just came from a house down the street where a baby is cutting a tooth. Such a cunning baby! I played hide and seek under its chin, and you should have heard him gurgle! He forgot all about that tooth that was making so much fuss about coming through. I left him kicking up his heels and crowing like a young rooster."

Away They Went.

Sally and Jerry laughed.

"Shall I dance for you?" asked the Snow Fairy politely.

"Oh, yes!" beseeched the children.

Up jumped the white little person, and in the twinkling of an eye she had begun. The children never saw such dancing in their lives. Never!

The Snow Fairy pirouetted on top of the clock; she whirled like a crystal prism. She jumped down and made a low bow to a china shepherdess, and then the shepherdess threw away her crook and danced with the fairy. Away they went, whirling and bobbing and turning and dipping. They jumped over vases; they peeked out behind pictures, they fairly flew through the air until you could not tell which was the Snow Fairy and which the china shepherdess.

Jerry and Sally clapped their hands and laughed until they could laugh no longer. They forgot all about parties and new slippers and making snowmen.

Then the strangest thing happened. They could not see the Snow Fairy at all. She wasn't there, and if you'll believe me, the china shepherdess was standing stiffly in her old spot as though she'd never had a thought of moving in her life.

"Dear me!" said Sally rubbing her eyes.

"Dear me!" said Jerry, rubbing his.

Mother came in soon after that. She stood smiling down upon them.

"Both you children were sound asleep on your stools when I was in here before. Do come and have something good to eat. I have a little party all ready for you."

And Sally and Jerry never said a word about the Snow Fairy. But they were as cheerful as cherubs the rest of the day.

Jacques' Christmas

A BLIZZARD was brewing. Little cutting pieces of snow were being blown in whirls around corners and down the street. Huddled down in his coat stood a newsboy of some eight or nine years. His face was drawn with the cold and he beat his hands against his sides to keep them warm.

Last-minute Christmas shoppers hurrying along to get their various errands done, gave no thought to the little fellow who pestered them with his papers. He ought to have known better when they had so many things to think about.

"Yeh, all the news—the latest news. Won't cha buy one, mister? I only have a couple more." He looked up pleadingly into the face of a passer by.

"Sorry, sonny," smiled the man," got one here now that I probably won't ever get a chance to read—so busy," and he hurried along his way.

The rush of pedestrians subsided a moment. The boy singled out a young woman, as he said, "She looks kind. I'll try her."

"Yeh—all the latest news—just out—won't cha buy one, please, lady? I only have a few."

She opened her purse and started to hunt for the money.

"I've just got to sell these papers out early tonight, 'cause it's my last chance to buy that doll. You know, my little sister, they say, isn't very well, and the only thing she says she wants is an orange for Christmas; but I know better." He paused for breath.

She Opened Her Purse.

"She wants a doll, but she thinks she can't ask for it 'cause we haven't money for dolls. I have, though," he said promptly. "I've been watching a doll in one of the windows here. I'm going by tonight and get it."

"What is your name, son?"

"Jacques and my sister's—ma petite soeur—Marthe."

"Zshack?—What a queer—"

"No; it isn't," he said, anticipating what she was going to say. "My mother is French. Those names are beautiful—to us," he added after a pause.

"Where do you live, Jacques?"

"Sixty-nine Kensington Square. Top floor, back two rooms. I've got that down pat now, haven't I?"

"Yes, you won't get lost right soon," she replied as she put her arm around him, and gave him a gentle tap on the shoulder. "Merry Christmas, Jacques," and she was on her way. She stopped a little way down the street, however, wrote something down, then hurried on.

Another half hour found Jacques hugging an orange and a little doll under his coat as he trudged along home. When he opened the door a little voice started chanting, "Frere Jacques, Frere Jacques—you're late tonight."

"Yes, Marthe. Today I was talking to Santa on the corner, and he said he was awfully busy. He doubted if he would get all around this year."

"Oh!" said Marthe in a disappointed tone.

Jacques' mother was sewing busily upon a garment she was intent upon finishing. Tomorrow was Christmas, and no sewing was going to be left over to bother her.

His Mother Was Just as Excited as He.

Marthe's bedtime came, and Jacques fixed his presents in preparation for the morrow. He had found a Christmas tree branch in the street, and this he made into a little tree under which he placed his gifts.

Christmas morning dawned brightly in the little French home. Jacques' surprise was complete, for Marthe went into raptures over the tree and her presents. She alternately hugged and kissed her doll, keeping up a con[illegible] chatter to it in French. The orange and a few other presents that she had found under the tree she put on the shelf, so that she could admire them while she rocked her doll.

Jacques had had his surprise, too—"Give and it shall be given unto you"—for his two packets under the tree had grown to be six or seven.

"Mother," he said, "I think I will have to try my new mittens and see exactly how warm they are." So saying, he slipped into his coat and pushed on the door. What ailed it? Was it frozen shut, stuck, or what was the matter?

With his mother's help the door was opened. To their surprise they found that a huge pile of packages had been the cause of their trouble.

Jacques gave a cry of delight as he pounced upon the bundles. His mother was just as excited as he, as she helped carry in the stuff.

Then followed one of the happiest hours the family had ever known—whole two-dozen oranges and all sorts of wholesome food. Jacques' mother fairly wept with joy.

Santa remembered us after all, mother," said little Jacques, "and he left this note on one of my presents. Look, mother, it says:—

"'I hope you will always be as thoughtful of your sister, Jacques. A Merry Christmas and a Bright and Happy New Year.

'SANTA CLAUS.'"

MO. MARKET BUREAU MAKES A REPORT OF ITS WORK

New State Bureau Tells of Different Phases of Agricultural Work in Missouri.

Jefferson City, Dec. 27—At the First Extra Session of the General Assembly in 1921 Senate Bill No. 69 establishing the State Marketing Bureau became a law. A brief statement of the services rendered by the Marketing Bureau follows:

Egg Grading—Approximately 500 egg candling and grading demonstrations were given in over 100 counties during 1922. Marketing Bureau field representatives actually handled 37,000 dozens of eggs direct from the producers. Marketing of eggs on a graded basis is the ultimate objective of the egg grading program. Furthermore, the educational work connected with the program will encourage egg producers to take better care of the product.

Cream Grading—A large annual loss is suffered by Missouri dairymen through careless and unsanitary practices employed in handling cream. Missouri produced butter is low in quality compared with butter manufactured in other states. The object of the state-wide cream grading program therefore is to bring the dairymen and the manager of the local cream buying station to the realization that this highly perishable product must be handled with greater care. The Missouri Creamerymen's Association has repeatedly stated that our work is rapidly producing substantial results. Reports from other sources are equally commendatory to those from the creamerymen.

Grain Grading and Marketing—Marketing of grain at country elevators on the basis of the official Grain Standards of the U. S. Department of Agriculture is the primary object of this program. Grain producers are thereby assured of receiving a price per bushel that is commensurate with the quality of the grain they produce.

Better Farm Seeds for Missouri—This project consists of cooperation with the Missouri Corn Growers' Association in its "Approved Farm Seeds" program. During 1922 over 32,500 bushels of seed wheat were approved as compared with 12,000 bushels in 1921. Practically all of this better seed wheat is planted in Missouri. Similar services were rendered for other farm seeds.

Fruits and Vegetables—During 1922 Federal inspection service was rendered to the Orient potato growers. A field market news station on strawberries was maintained at Monett. A similar station was maintained at Kennett for watermelons.

Wool Pooling and Marketing—Standardization of wool as recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and assisting wool growers to market the product cooperatively has been the objective of the program. Over 2,000,000 pounds of Missouri wool has been graded by the Marketing Bureau free of cost to Missouri farmers. The information secured from this grading service has enabled the Marketing Bureau to greatly decrease the "reject" grades of wool in Missouri.

Live Stock Marketing—Assistance in the marketing of purebred live stock at home and abroad has been rendered. A purebred live stock directory of Missouri breeders is now in process of preparation. The initiative in marketing stocker and feeder hogs and cattle direct from producer to feeder has been successfully carried out by the Marketing Bureau. Occasional aid has been rendered in the Organization of shipping associations and auditing the books of managers of live stock shipping associations.

The Marketing Bulletin—Approximately 45,000 copies are now mailed out to Missouri farmers weekly. Many letters highly commending the free listing services of the Bulletin are on file.

Radio Market News—Several hundred Missouri receiving stations are regularly copying the information broadcast by station WOS. This service is being rendered in connection within the leased telegraph wire of the U. S. Department of Agriculture connecting the Marketing Bureau offices with Washington, D. C., and all of the large markets in the country.

Speaking of the coming New Year's resolutions, we wonder how many people are keeping any from last year.

What greater proof of Willys-Knight performance could you ask than this letter from Mr. R. M. Bennett, in which he says:

"In 1914 my father, Mr. E. T. Bennett, purchased the first Willys-Knight car that came to Memphis, Tennessee. This car is now eight years old and is not only still running but is more powerful and more quiet than on date of purchase. The car has covered more than one hundred thousand miles and has not required one cent in repairs to the motor. The only mechanical work that has been done is the relining of the brake bands. This car is now being used and driven by my brother and has not seen a garage or overhead cover for the past four years."

Incidentally Mr. Bennett just bought a new Willys-Knight Sedan "sight unseen," and took delivery from the freight car without even a demonstration.

TIRED OF DEMOCRACY, SAYS BERNARD SHAW IN ENGLAND

"We Have Arrived at Strange Point in History of Europe," He Declares

London, Dec. 27—"Everybody is tired of Democracy," says George Bernard Shaw, who declares that the world is alwoys traveling in a vicious circle and is now again tending towards a period of tyranny.

"We have arrived at a strange point in the history of Europe," Shaw says. "Consider the teachings of history. First oligarchy, then democracy, then tyranny, then a threat of the break up of civilization. Then, again, oligarchy, and democracy, and tyranny, combined with a large proletariat maintained by doles. The vicious circle is coming around again. Women got the vote, and the immediate result was the disastrous election in 1918.

"What are we going to do about it all? Can we avoid these intolerable follies? Can we get a good government by the system of democracy? Somebody once described democracy as 'government of the people, by the people, for the people.' That is all nonsense. To talk of the people making their own laws is as preposterous as talking of the people writing their own plays, which nobody would go to see.

"People don't want to be governed. The reason why we are slaves in this country is because we are so desperately determined to get rid of the government which is necessary to preserve our freedom. A new government is taking hold in Great Britain. Do you think that the people will win? Nine-tenths of the Ministry consists of people who know nothing whatever about it. We are again drifting towards an oligarchy, set up for five years. It is not satisfactory. It is no good.

"What is the answer? I can give only one. I don't know.

"I do not believe that democracy, as at present constituted, will endure."

GLOOMY MR. HARVEY

George Harvey, our ambassador to Great Britain, who, at the American Circle of the Lyceum club in London, said that "Europe is facing the most despairing outlook in history."

it has been agreed that only Senators with past experience and service in either the House or the Senate be made the presiding officers, floor leaders and committee chairmen.

Democratic Speaker, House.

A spirited and therefore highly interesting contest is also on for the Speakership of the House with Casper M. Edwards of Dunklin County, Oak Hunter of Randolph County, R. L. Haines of Saline County, G. M. Peters, Clay County, and Charles Sutton of Reynolds County in the running, with honors, at the present moment, about equally divided. Representatives Edwards and Hunter are probably campaigning harder for the gift than the other aspirants.

Hunter's Hale Hunt.

Oak Hunter of Randolph is as active in his campaign as is Edwards of Dunklin. His is an untiring subrosa contest for the speakership since he is flooding the state with carefully typewritten requests for support, each appeal going forth in full dignity in a sealed envelope, carrying a two cent stamp. In this way it has become known to every democratic representative, to all party leaders and to all democratic newspapers of Missouri that Hunter is on a hale hunt for the big House glory of being Speaker. It is stated by his friends that fifty-two out of the eighty-three democratic representatives look with favor upon his candidacy.

The party caucus the day before the next General Assembly convenes will definitely decide the issue as to Representative who will be the next Speaker in the House. Out of 150 members of the House 83 are democratic, 65 republican, and two seats contested.

DEMOLAY RABBIT HUNT AND BANQUET PLANNED

To Bag the Bunny On Saturday and Monday and Serve Him Tuesday Is Idea

The De Molays are going to have a rabbit hunt. This was decided at a meeting held last night and plans were made to hold the hunt on a contest basis. Two teams will hunt. The first, captained by Gerald Keef, will go out and chase the elusive bunny on Saturday and the second, with Russell Allan as the leader, will waste amunition on New Years Day.

These two teams will vie with one-another to see which can bag the most game. The hunt will be scored and each animal killed will count so many points. Any one killing a Jack-rabbit will be credited with 100 points. Cottontails will count 10 points and squirrels will count 5 points.

The time of the hunt will be from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 in the afternoon of each day of the hunt. As soon as the hunters get back to Maryville, the leader will report the number of rabbits or squirrels killed and his team will be scored accordingly. The team bagging the most game will be rewarded. The individual hunter who kills the most rabbits on one of the days will receive a loving cup which will be presented by the committee in charge.

Each hunter will clean his own rabbits or squirrels and Tuesday night, following the hunt, a rabbit supper will be served at the Pennington restaurant. This supper will be served after the De Molay meeting which will be had on that night. At this meeting the new officers for the first three months of the year 1923 will be installed.

The supper will start about 9 o'clock and the menu as furnished by the committee will be rabbit, mashed potatoes, beans, bread and butter, coffee and ice cream.

At supper there will be several short talks. William Mapel will act as toastmaster and short talks will be made by M. A. Peery, the "dad" of the De Molays, I. E. Tulloch, Russell Allan, Gerald Keef, and by the boy who kills the largest number of rabbits.

The committee has asked that all Masons and De Molays who plan to attend the supper notify the toastmaster in order that the required number of plates will be reserved. Any Mason or De Molay in Maryville or the surrounding country is invited to attend the rabbit supper as well as the installation of officers which will precede it.

DIFFERENT VIEWS ON THE NEW YEAR

OPTIMISM SEEMS TO PREVAIL IN PROGNOSTICATIONS

PROSPERITY FOR AMERICA

But British Outlook Is Not So Bright —Many Notables Express Opinions

The dawn of the New Year is marked by striking contrasts in the respective points of view of American and European statesmen, business men and others prominent in the political and industrial life of the two continents.

Optimism, tempered only with speculation that American prosperity may be qualified somewhat by European depression, is the predominating strain in the prognostications of leading citizens of the United States.

A trend toward dire forebodings for the fate of Europe crops up irrepressibly in many of the expressions from across the ocean.

Americans foresee an era of prosperity, Britain a somewhat dubious outlook. Europe enters the New Year still clinging to the hope of further assistance from America.

One notable exception is seen in the statement of the Right Honorable James Craig, Bart, M. P., Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, who points to the peace that reigns in Ulster and declares that the country looks forward to the New Year with hope and confidence.

Another is that of Andrew Rothstein, representative of Soviet Russia in Great Britain, who says that the Russians are "facing the coming year with confidence."

"America can best serve herself and the causes for which she entered the European war, and best help Europe and the world by helping to make the League of Nations.....an effective instrument," writes Philip Snowden, Member of Parliament, in his message.

"America and Britain, acting together, could do much to lead in securing the beginning of world co-operation," observes J. R. Clyne, another Member of Parliament.

Senator Robert M. La Follette interprets the recent elections to indicate political trend toward "the regaining of control of the Government by the people of the United States."

Hon. Calvin Coolidge, Vice-President of the United States, expresses his belief that the country in the last year has been characterized by "adherence to righteous principles applied with common sense," and in these sterling qualities he professes to see naught but "steady and increasing progress" continuing "through the next year."

Senator William E. Borah expresses the hope that the coming year "be made glorious" by the "breaking away from all fears and passions and intolerance left behind by the war."

In each instance hopefulness, not without reasonable basis, is expressed for a more prosperous and successful new year.

FARM BUREAU CONTINUES COUNTY EXTENSION WORK

Letter Going Out Today From Kinnaird Tells of Plans of the Work.

Letters are being sent out today from the office of R. A. Kinnaird, county farm agent, to the members of the Nodaway County Farm Bureau relative to several subjects in connection with the co-operative extension work in home economics and agriculture. In this work the farm bureau is co-operating with the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri and with the United States department of agriculture.

One of the matters mentioned is the pig clubs. They will be run in a different manner this year and on a different basis than last year. Instead of taking registered sows and gilts and holding a pig club sale of purebred pigs for breeding purposes, the boys and girls this year will take a good brood sow, either pure bred or high grade, and fatten the litter to make the best market hogs and there will be no pure bred sale.

Another change is that instead of having one big county club, local clubs and local pig shows will be had. Clubs have been arranged for the Skidmore consolidated district, Burlington Junction community, Clearmont community, Hopkins community, Maryville community, and plans are to be made to organize one in the Barnard community. Parnell will continue to have its club.

Another feature is that regular meetings will be held once a month until May, to give the club members instruction in raising hogs.

The farm bureau plans to release some additional moving pictures which will be available at the community meetings for the next few months as follows: January, "Uncle Sam's Pig Club Work;" February, the films on hog worms; April, "Health for Hogs and Hog Cholera and Vaccination."
